

Some Gods on Earth

This was written so that you may find the God in You.

Eternal Life

Would you be
So happy to see
Your dreams all come true
To have reached the heavens to float with the angels
to be downloaded uploaded and shipped Into the battle with the darkness
that is you
to win
and realize the division was only the illusion
of master and slave
Ahh never to count the days

What is God's love?

Is it a sense of belonging? Is it the song of a bird on a dew morning? Is it a feeling when playing music or a mysterious sense of time loss when painting or creating? Is God's love when you barely escape trouble or when you had a sense something great was about to happen and it does? Is it when you first catch that baseball in the outfield? Is it when you were distracted by a beautiful butterfly when your mind was pondering the orchestrated chaos of life? Is it when your life goes smoothly down the river of existence? Will you be able to cross into the afterlife with a sense of accomplishment?

On the not so favorable side of things is God's love when you experience trauma? Is it when you cannot afford rent? Is it when you made your life a mess from substance abuse? Is it when you become disabled? Is it when you are hungry? Is it when you let people down? Is it when you let things get to you? Is it when you took it too far? Is it when you feel horrible for the way you have acted and now you bottle it so that you can continue in some way shape or form?

Is it when you knew you should not be involved with someone and now you are and you cannot get out of a situation that easily? Is it when you get that gut feeling? Is it when you took a chance and it paid off? Is it when you were at the right place at the right time or wrong place at the wrong time? The answer is all of the above.

God's Love is a feeling when the story that is your life feels as though it is going good and you feel as you are on the right path. God's love can also become tough love for when we fall out of line of what “God” intended for us. The parameters for this biological matrix are pretty well set.

What is God or who?

What is your relation to God? Are you looking over your shoulder for the next catastrophe or do you accept things as they are and you feel you are on the right path? Do you believe God is omnipresent? Do you speak to God? Do you pray? Do you feel a relation to the world you live in? The world has many religions and they all speak of a higher power, the creator, the source, whatever we name it we are experiencing consciousness through the delivery of our senses that we are in existence.

In the bible they refer to God as “I am”. In the Quran God is Allah. In sports God is split seconds of time. In art God is the connection to a painting and it tells your story though you have never seen the painting. In poetry it is something that really called to you in a time of need and understanding. God could be that split second of time between you and that accident. God could also be that time you didn’t feel right about something and did it anyway. Lessons can best be learned the hard way as we have all heard the term tough love.

What is our relation to God?

Are we simply peasants to worship the creation of such majesty that we could never fully understand our role in existence? Is God the main character in your life? Are you the main character of your life? For some trying to achieve a relationship with a God that does not reply immediately or seem to be listening can be difficult.

God’s love is so addictive that we all are in search of it all the time. In our world we are all seeing existence individually as a witness to the creation. We are all individually perceiving the world that we exist in through our own unique lens. We are all living different lives simultaneously existing in a realm that we do not understand; yet have a place in no matter how short. We are all individually the viewer. We are here to exist within the realm God has created and most of our lives are spent wondering why we are here and what we should be doing.

From the time we are born we are all trained to sacrifice our individuality for the sake of the group. This is also an instinct for survival and has brought us new technologies working together as a race of thinkers and doers. The sake of the individual is lost immediately upon entry of a second person in a room. When there is one person in a room the person is solely responsible for himself to either leave or stay. When there are two people in a room the ante is raised and there are endless possibilities of what could happen.

The creator or “God” created this world to convince God that the entirety of the entirety of the universe is not alone. Your perception of life is the eye of God watching it’s own creation. God is living inside of the creation. God is here. God is inside you and now it’s time to take responsibility.

It is time you take responsibility for your creation. Many lives as God are spent wasted in total confusion for the simple reason that we are in a confusing world without knowing the truth of our own Godship. Our Godship is not our body but our vessel and we are here to view our creation. Even more interesting is the creation within the creation. The void is where creation comes from. Where there is nothing there is something. We are here as the voids answer to itself.

The holographic nature of existence is not one that will feel holographic in times of pain in times of sorrow or in times of winning. Our senses perceive our existence and our existence creates the need for theatrical lessons of life. Every sentient being is sent to school of a constant state of confusion over the ways of the world. We are all made to believe that our existence is in the hands of our friends, family, co workers, our environment, and our own ability to survive. These are all part of the play you created as your own walk through life. In this life you will express free will. In this life you will fall, you will love, you will fall in love, and love will turn to hate, you will hate everything about this place. You will hate yourself, you will hate what you have become until the day you decide to take responsibility for the world you have created for yourself and the worlds you create in the world you have created for yourself. You are the “perceiver”.

You are the only person who can perceive what is real in the world. If your reality is based in the dark deeds of humanity and you fell into the traps that you set for yourself. The only way out is to turn back. Though you may be God you do not know what you have planned for yourself in punishment for bad decisions. Even outside of the parameters of the matrix.

Decisions

Any avoidance of a bad decision is a good decision. We get caught in our own avoidance of decision making which is in itself a bad decision. In the paradox of life sometimes there are good bad decisions and bad good decisions. Sometimes the decisions are made without our consent. If it is not what you have intended for your passage of time then you will be let down. Your life will never grow until it has died from path of your ego and it's way of destroying all that is good.

Right and wrong is what this is all about do not be confused by distraction. We are all here to fulfill many obligations we have set for ourselves as the creator. Though there are many things that we must go through in this life it may only be that one particular act of kindness that was needed from you in this life for you to achieve God status. When you are on the right path you will know because everything will come together. You will walk as God on this planet. The reason I do not fear letting the world know of the truth of existence is because I can tell somebody they are God until the end of time it would not mean anything. It will only mean something when they know they are God by walking in the path they created for themselves to learn themselves as a creator. We are here to be tested and every day is a test. You would not create a test for yourself that you could not pass. Everyday will get you closer to that day of freedom. When that day comes and you hold the simple values that connect us as humans as your own religion and you refuse to lay down to the empty stares of the people that you have sent to deceive you in this life...then you will become God. It will take every moment of the rest of your life. It will bring you to the conclusions that were evading you. It will bring you peace.

Heaven and Hell

Both heaven and hell exist on earth. We are all going to make mistakes. We are all going to make bad mistakes. We as humans treat each other horribly. Guess what? You do not have to be included in the horrible nature of the human race. When you understand that you created this universe and that many of the distractions were there to really test you in infinite ways. You will know you are God when you know. You will know when you realize the only way to know what the path was is to have known the path ended when you walked off of it and also when you returned the path was there. Heal yourself and you shall heal your creation so that you may live as a God. Become a beam of light to see in a world that you created for yourself to exist in.
